Four students named 'Reginities of the Month'

Four Regina Dominican students – one from each class -- were recognized by their peers as Reginities of the Month for December in honor of their special qualities exemplary to the values of the school. They were announced in January.

Senior Mary Kate Quirk was noted as "the sweetest person" who can always make others laugh "or just listen when I need a listener."

The junior Reginite was Allana Mortell, an "outgoing girl who's always there, whether you need help or a simple cheering up."

Sophomore Mary Cooper was recognized for always being willing to help others. In addition, because of her fun-loving nature, "she makes Regina extra fun."

Finally, freshman Julianne Samuels was lauded as a student who is "helpful, hard-working and nice."

Every month during the school year, students are encouraged to nominate a classmate for Reginite of the Month in honor of their involvement in academic or extra-curricular activities, devotion to the community, or qualities that exemplify them as students of Regina Dominican. Final selections are made by a committee, and the photos and descriptions of the Reginities are posted on the bulletin board by the Student Entrance until the next month's Reginities are named.
