Three new staff members join Regina Dominican's ranks

Freshmen and transfer students aren't the only new faces at Regina Dominican. Also new at the beginning of the 2005-2006 school year are three staff members.

College Counselor Krista Jorgensen received her B.A. in Communication from the University of Wisconsin-Madison. She then earned a Master's degree in Counseling from DePaul University, where she worked for seven years as a career counselor.

Mrs. Jorgensen's family lives in Minneapolis, Minnesota. She got married in May, 2005, and she and her husband live in Chicago. Her goal is to help Regina students to be accepted into colleges "that will be a great fit with (their) academic and extracurricular interests."

Timothy Smith, Regina Dominican's new Assistant Director of Information Technology, graduated from Loyola Academy and earned his B.A. in computer science, with a minor in mathematics, from St. Louis University.

Mr. Smith was Assistant Director of Operations at Lakeshore Athletic Services before coming to Regina. His family includes his mother, a nurse; his father, an employee of Loyola University; two sisters, one a nurse at Resurrection Hospital and the other a Latin teacher at New Trier High School; and his brother, a lawyer.

"I hope to successfully contribute to the already outstanding education process at Regina Dominican, along with fostering healthy young women as the assistant cross-country coach," Mr. Smith said.

Regina's new social worker, Kathryn "Katie" Vladovich, graduated from Carl Sandburg High School in Palos Park and earned her B.S.W. from the University of Iowa at Iowa City. She went on to earn her M.S.W. from Loyola University-Chicago, where she has since done post-graduate studies.

Ms. Vladovich has been a social worker at Metropolitan Family Services, where she provided individual, group, and family therapy to children and adolescents. She was also a social work intern in Northwestern Memorial Hospital's inpatient psychiatric unit. During the last school year, she was a social work extern at New Trier High School.

Ms. Vladovich grew up in Orland Park, where her parents still live. She is the youngest of three siblings. Her sister is a stay-at-home mom in Wauconda and her brother, an architect, lives in New York City. Ms. Vladovich currently resides in Chicago's Roscoe Village.

She met a number of Regina Dominican students last year during a special weekend, Operation Snowball. Her hopes are "to become an effective and positive member of this community, while providing social work services." She also hopes to "truly get to know all the staff and students."
