Recent alum selected to college vocal jazz ensemble

Katie Bauer, a 2004 graduate of Regina Dominican, was selected by audition as an alto for the Elmhurst College vocal jazz group, "Late Night Blues."

Directed by Associate Professor Susan Moninger, "Late Night Blues" is a group of 13 singers who perform a variety of contemporary jazz music, both a capella and accompanied by a jazz combo. Their off-campus performances have included European concert tours, which brought them enthusiastic reviews.

Katie, a freshman music education major, is also a member of the Elmhurst College Women's Chorus.

An honors student, Katie shared her musical talent throughout her years at Regina Dominican. In her junior and senior years, she sang with the Regina Chorale, an auditioned, primarily a capella choir that performs at school concerts and throughout the Chicago area. As a junior, she was also a member of the Artistry Jazz Choir. Katie landed key roles in Regina Dominican's Fall Musicals, portraying the Cowardly Lion in the 2003 musical, The Wizard of Oz, and gambler Nicely-Nicely in the 2002 musical, Guys and Dolls. In addition, Katie was a member of the chorus in the 2001 musical, No, No, Nanette. She also served as cantor during school liturgies.

Katie was a member of Regina Dominican's chapters of the Modern Music Masters (Tri-M) Honor Society and the International Thespian Honor Society.
